We have contracted with Jesse Oldham on a number of occasions to undertake major renovations on our home in New Denver BC, most recently (2015/16) to construct a basement suite for us.

In each instance, we were pleased with the service, craftsmanship and overall outcomes of the projects.

These projects were carried out while we were in Calgary, making communication of the utmost importance. Jesse made sure that we were involved and informed as the work progressed, a relief for us as these projects involved major expenditures.

Jesse was instrumental in helping us to navigate the permitting process, somewhat complicated for a basement suite, and in both instances managed to bring the projects to a close on time and on spec. Timing was especially important as the property in question is seasonal residence for us. Jesse even helped us find a tenant for the basement suite when completed, again a relief as we were operating from a distance of 650 kilometers.

Jesse took the time to meet with us, explaining the more technical issues and why certain alternatives were superior to others and how we could save money in certain areas.

New Denver is a small isolated community, we undertook major renovations and it was a relief to have a local connected, professional to deal with throughout the process.

Thank you
